Preserving America's Heritage

Careers in Historic Preservation

- - What does a historic preservationist do? - - a. Save old buildings b. Protect sacred sites

c. Work in museums d. None of the above
e. All of the above

Think you might be interested in protecting sacred sites or helping to preserve Native languages? Have you always wanted to work in a museum? Or for a tribal cultural center or government? Are you interested in history, architecture, anthropology or archaeology?

You can become one of the many professionals who work for an Indian tribe, Native Hawaiian organization, federal or state agency, Intertribal organization, museum, or private cultural resources management (CRM) firm. Below are some useful sites with more information!
